

Deborah Yates Joins Solomon Ward Seidenwurm & Smith

Deborah Yates

Deborah Yates has joined the firm of Solomon Ward Seidenwurm & Smith LLP as an associate. Yates joins the firm's business litigation and intellectual property and technology practice groups. With 10 years' experience in litigating, Yates has represented a wide range of business clients, from small private schools to international pharmaceutical companies.

For several years before joining Solomon Ward, Yates served as counsel at the law firm WilmerHale in Washington, D.C, where she was litigator within the IP Department of the Year named by The American Lawyer in January 2014. At WilmerHale, Yates litigated in both state and federal courts, with issues ranging from breach of contract to patent infringement.

Ms. Yates has previously served as senior litigation counsel at Blackbird Technologies, where she managed patent litigation with a focus on inventions by individuals and small companies.

<http://www.sandiegometro.com/2017/06/daily-business-report-june-20-2017/>