THE PROGRAM

The law is not, and never will be, at the cutting edge of technology. So it is no surprise that litigators and judges continue to wrestle with how new types of evidence fit into existing legal precedent. The legal challenges posed by technological innovation are further complicated by uncertainty and speculation about how state and federal legislators will (or won't) address concerns over the privacy and security implications of these new technologies. Join our panel as they present a round-up of new cases and statutes that touch on legal developments in the area of electronic evidence and digital privacy.

THE PANELISTS

Jason A. Forge, Robbins Geller Rudman & Dowd LLP

Brett Norris, U.S. Attorney's Office – Civil Division

Sabrina L. Fève, U.S. Attorney's Office – Criminal Division
